

DIPLOMA OF HIGHER EDUCATION IN PSYCHOLOGY & COUNSELING

Overview

Counseling is one of the most demanded professions in the world. With increasing number of people in the world are feeling anxious, stressed, confused and upset due to their complicated and competitive life styles need for professionals in this field have increased largely over the years and will only further increase in the years to come. This program is specially designed to train counselors who would cater to that need in the society. If you are someone who have the personality factors that make you a good and a patient listener, a calm and objective adviser, this program would shape you to become and expert counselor and later on with postgraduate training, a counseling psychologist. Students could either continue with the same combination for the final year or to switch the fields entirely in to psychology.
